

Facilitators

SUE JOHNSTON (NZ). B.A. (Soc Sci) | Leadership Coach | Certified Dare to Lead™ Facilitator

KATIE KILTY (USA). Ed.D. | Leadership Coach | Certified Dare to Lead™ Facilitator | Consultant

Location

NEW ZEALAND RUGBY

100 Molesworth Street. Thorndon. Wellington

Invitation to Dare to Lead™ in Sport Workshop

1-2 July 2019.

8.30am – 5.00pm both days.

What's on offer?

A two-day courage skill building workshop specifically for people in sport. The skills covered address the issue of how to cultivate braver, more daring leaders and embed the value of courage in your culture. The workshop has been designed for up to 25 forward thinking people from different sports codes to come together and learn the four skills sets of courage. The workshop is based on the research of Dr. Brené Brown. Her latest book Dare to Lead™ is an empirically based courage-building program designed to be facilitated by organisational development professionals.

Who's it for?

This workshop will suit players, former players, coaches, match officials and administrators who are interested in learning how and why courage builds better leaders and teams. Expect to walk away with practical skills. This works acts as an amplifier for other leadership work.

What's the cost?

The workshop is being offered at the below cost price of $350+GST per person in recognition that this workshop group will contribute to the development of a sports specific programme being designed by Sue and Katie. Payment will be required to confirm registration. Register by emailing Sue your sport code and role.

Find out more about facilitators Sue and Katie on the next page.

Register by emailing sue@artemisgroup.co.nz

About the facilitators

Sue Johnston

Sue is a Strategic Advisor, Certified Coach and Facilitator based in Greytown, New Zealand. Sue works with leaders and entrepreneurs who want to become better leaders through understanding how to lead during times of uncertainty, risk and emotional exposure, encouraging innovation and growing courageous and connected teams. Sue is a Results Trained Coach with the Neuro Leadership Institute.

Being active has always been a big part of Sue's life. She played three sports at provincial level (netball, surf lifesaving and water polo) and played water polo for the New Zealand women's national team. These days, she likes to get out on her mountain bike, dance samba and do pilates. You can find out more about Sue's background and experience here. LinkedIn:

<http://www.linkedin.com/pub/suejohnston/a/9bb/555>.

Katie Kilty

Katie believes that anything is possible. She has witnessed this while working alongside people of multiple cultures, abilities and ways of being throughout her life. Travel is in her bones. She is an experiential learner with an adventurous spirit, driven by curiosity and innovation. Using a combination of courageous leadership and design thinking Katie works collaboratively with leaders to create high performing, human centred workplaces.

Leveraging her training in psychology, experiential education and the arts, she designs and facilitates dynamic and engaging coaching partnerships, workshops and team retreats. She is an active volunteer, energized by creating and supporting community-based programs utilizing sport and the arts for social change. Clients include Ellie Mae; Mass Challenge; EMD Sorono; US and International Olympic Teams, Janssen Pharmaceutical Companies; American College of Cardiology; Yale School of Medicine and the 1214 Foundation.

Katie holds a doctoral degree in Counselling and Developmental Studies with a specialty in Performance and Sport Psychology from Boston University; Master's in arts and Learning and Masters in Sport Psychology. She is credentialed in the Leadership Circle Profile™, Social Fitness™, Digital Storytelling Facilitation and more. She is also a Professor of Sport Management at Endicott College.

Katie lives on the North Shore of Boston, with one foot on the land and one in the sea, ever ready to head out on her next adventure.